Summary	Great job with the design of your project, which seems identical to the project specification. In addition, your code was very well formatted and structured with great readability. The areas of improvement here are to try to include some text inside of the <code>&lt;title&gt;&lt;/title&gt;</code> tag which will serve as the text displayed on the browser tab for the page, to be careful to always close up tags that need to be closed like the <code>&lt;head&gt;</code> tag, and to consider using id attributes for unique elements with individual styling like the <code>&lt;h2&gt;</code> elements instead of class names, which are usually applied to multiple elements with shared styling. As a further challenge, consider adding mobile resizing to your project. This might take some extra research, but can be a really valuable way to challenge yourself to push past what you've already learned. Based on your work here, I think it's a challenge you're ready for. Keep up the great work!
